Can Vietnam reduce the cost of electricity by 2030?

These benefits are significant for Vietnam. This outcome is not a forecast but rather a road map that illustrates how national ministries, provinces, and corporate stakeholders could collaborate across different sectors to decrease the cost of electricity by 2030 and increase penetration of renewables.

How can JETP be a good investment in Vietnam?

Invest in the grid. Developers and investors could be attracted to new projects if the grid were updated to allow JETP projects and other investments. The ability of the private sector to participate in the grid development and operation may also make Vietnam more enticing to investors.
